I'm an MSc Computer Science student specializing in interaction design. I've developed an interest in the visual aspects of tech and recently launched my career in UX design & frontend development. I believe these complementary skills create a powerful foundation that will propel me forward in the industry.

My background in competitive sports, primarily basketball, has instilled in me invaluable qualities such as perseverance and resilience to pressure. Through teamwork, I've learned the significance of collaboration and collective effort in achieving shared objectives.

As a professional, you can rely on me to be determined, punctual, and accountable. My experience as a team captain and student association work have honed my ability to collaborate effectively with diverse individuals and prioritize collective success.
